

Raghav Aggarwal

I am currently pursuing a Bachelor of International Economics (BIE) at the Vancouver School of Economics in Canada. The BIE program is an accelerated direct entry program that accepts less than 5% of applications (50% domestic students and 50% international students) with core courses in math, business and economics. My interest in entrepreneurship and business economics began when I attended summer school at Stanford University in 2013 and has continued to grow through self-initiatives like Storally and internships at Barclays, South Africa and Alta Sierra Capital. I have also been actively involved in leadership and non-leadership roles at UBC.

EXPERIENCE

- 2016-04 Co-founder, Storally
Co-founded a peer to peer self-storage platform to solve the problem for students looking for storage while they are away. The platform connects people looking to store their stuff with people willing to host such stuff.

- 2016-05 - 2016-07 UX Design Intern
Barclays Africa Group, South Africa
Designed low-fidelity and high fidelity prototypes for a financial reporting app for senior executives at the Johannesburg Headquarters. Worked closely with the development and consulting division to research peer to peer insurance in developing countries for a Barclays client.
- 2016-09 Vice President
Walter Gage Residence Association (GRA), UBC Vancouver Campus
Elected to serve on the GRA council. My responsibilities include coordinating the internal and external functioning of the council and collaborating with the Residence advisors and residents to build and foster a meaningful residence community by organizing events, advocacy and improving the quality of residence life.
- 2016-12 Data Sourcing Associate
Alta Sierra Capital, Vancouver, Washington
Using the search fund model, I am assisting Alta Sierra Capital to find suitable SMB's for potential acquisition. The analysis involves extensive empirical and strategical analysis to evaluate various target companies.

EDUCATION

- 2015-08 - 2019-11 The University of British Columbia, Bachelor of International Economics
